YOURSELF

The need of interaction between human beings is one of our basic principles. From the very beginning of our lives, we are surrounded by the environment around us. As we get older, we experience larger amount of environment affect. We get to know more people and many different places. Our knowledge comes from the measure of experiences and memories. Each thing, that we meet, can be integrated into one of the three main groups - THE PEOPLE, starting with our families and friends to random foreigners. ENVIRONMENT, that we live in - from rush city life of work, entertainment and relax to standstill village and nature environment full of endless beauties. YOURSELF - everyone of us is unique! Everyone keeps thinking - about the future, memories, about our plans and joy. Architecture is an instrument to implement it all together...
