

BORDER CHECKPOINT

ONCE UPON A TIME.....

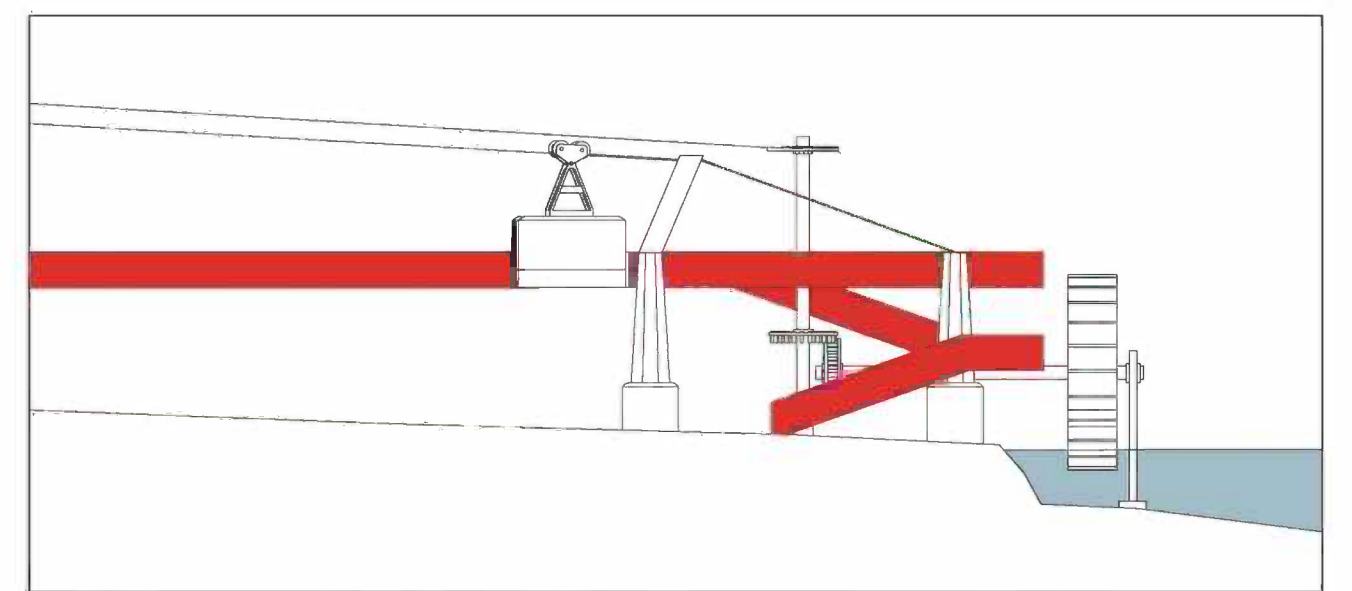

A man used to go to the riverside, he could never ever even imagine what was the other side of it like. He desired to find it out, but he did not know how. Then he realised that he could probably see more from the top of the cliff. After few exhausting hours of climbing he finally reached the top and discovered a stunning view of the both magnificent countrysides lying along the river. Scaling the cliff, he injured himself and desperate, realised he will not be able to get there anymore. However he wanted to go there and see all the beauty again. To make it possible for others to see that beauty as well. Suddenly he got an idea - a cable car powered by the energy of the river. Shear power of nature, used to make people see its fortune... A water-wheel! Since then everyone can admire by his own eyes the real beauty of the two countries on the both sides of the river. The river which proves authentically that the boarder can connect and bring people together as well.
